The long standing relationship between the two family owned companies has customers asking for Belden by name, among them the University of Kentucky, Centre College and Asbury Theological Seminary.

Larry L. Shetler
James L. Parson
Wayne R. Miller
Garrett E. Stein
Ronald E. Powell
Scott W. Miller
Michael A. Rininger
Dale M. Miller
Terry A. Burkhart
Tom E. Immel
Dennis Little

August 24, 1949. Under the leadership of Kenny Cox, the Clay Ingels and Belden Brick alliance continue to provide the very best in masonry resources, there is no substitute for genuine clay brick,” said Gregg Borchelt, president and CEO of the Brick Industry Association (BIA).

Take a drive around Lexington and Central Kentucky and you'll see, woven into hundreds of homes and businesses, the bricks and building materials that have earned Clay Ingels its stellar reputation in the industry, with the kind of experience that big box retailers simply can't touch.

"As a versatile building material made from abundant natural resources, there is no substitute for genuine clay brick," said Gregg Borchelt, president and CEO of the Brick Industry Association (BIA).

Now 90 years ago, Evan Ingels and Matt Clay began pumping the natural resource and building their business, Clay Ingels. "Now a fourth-generation family-owned business, Clay Ingels has stood the test of time by continuing to lead the Central Kentucky market as the largest and most experienced supplier of masonry products."

Andrew Miller
Joel P. Miller
Jeffrey N. McIntire
Rex A. Arnold
Timothy E. Brown
Clifford G. Y osick
Raymond M. Troyer
Thomas L. Brown
William G. Wolfe

"The long standing relationship between the two family owned companies has customers asking for Belden by name, among them the University of Kentucky, Centre College and Asbury Theological Seminary."
President & CEO

John Streb

as their families' wellness.

stewardship and continuous improvement.

place of dieting. This decision will reflect in their personal health as well we are very proud of those who are making the "lifestyle change" in activities. The Belden Brick Companies 62 participants have lost a total of 343 pounds in 2012. Great job!

This program is in its infancy stage and will refuse us for these recyclable wastes.

program is that they have the entire year to lose the weight. They are who are in the challenge and doing well, I've learned that the program were 845,563 – more than three times this year's level. 2005 finished with a total of 1,692,124 residential period of 2011. To put that number into perspective, residential projects for the first six months of 2005 incineration, decreasing the associated

This year long program encourages employees to lose the extra pounds program that conducts weigh-ins four times per year and pays out $1 per and keep it off. Hence, Every Pound Pays was initiated. This is a year-long is our latest endeavor towards continuous exciting new and existing products.

The second year rolled around and so did the idea of trying to do more established during the financial crisis as have stocks of suppliers products into print. We have been updating prevent the house market. The index hasn't been above 50 since April and keep the weight off began and most failed. Most employees were

Data of homebuilders have been rising well above the lows

"dieting" and dropping large amounts of weight within a short period 2006, the peak of the most recent housing boom.

benefit the Early Childhood Resource Center.

On July 6th Belden Brick served ice cream to

We can all be proud to say that Cherry Velour was voted as "Best Flavor"

to continuous improvement and pollution

Belden Products in Print

From the President's Desk

Wellness for Life.

Belden's Lifestyle Change

ECRC Ice Cream Social

WELLNESS FOR LIFE. BELDEN'S LIFESTYLE CHANGE

Thanks to John Belden, Dolly Kozak, Mark Britko and our honorary workers by those that attended the event. Milk & Honey made the ice cream for benefits that are enjoyed by Belden Brick.

EMPLOYEE ANNIVERSARIES

2012 has brought about the Belden Brick Company's third

The sentiment index has risen in eight of the last ten months. The index business, from consistently manufacturing a "Standard of Comparison" in all facets of the

would be buying our stock right now in the last third of July of 2012.

Belden's Lifestyle Change

Wellness for Life.